INSTITUTIONAL

At LJB, we view our service to the institutional marketplace as a service to people. Whether it's a place to learn or a place to heal, institutions are all about serving people -- just like LJB.

To create pleasing environments for people, design professionals must create not only functional space, but also attractive and pleasant surroundings. LJB achieves this balance by coordinating our projects so that all parties' needs are heard at the onset and met in completion.

The professionals at LJB are people first. People who understand the importance of institutions for our communities. People who want to become your trusted advisor and don't mind rolling up their sleeves and getting dirty if it helps move the project closer to completion.
